HOUSE REFUSES VOTE ADJOURNMENT

EFFORT TO DECIDE QUITTING DATE IS DECISIVELY BEATEN

SENATOR SMALL STARTS DRIVE POSTPONE LIBERALIZED OLD AGE LAW

AUSTIN, June 12.—(AP)—Hopes for an adjournment of the legislature this week were virtually crushed by house action today.

By 68 to 60, the house refused even to set Tuesday of next week as the date for the end of the longest Texas legislative session on record. This was the session's 154th day, members having worked on half pay since May 9.

Most opponents of the sales-natural resource tax constitutional amendment advocated by Gov. O'Daniel were voting against setting a sine die adjournment date. They took the position fixing a date would enhance the amendment's chances of passage.

SENATE SETS DATE

AUSTIN, June 12.—(AP)—The senate voted, 18 to 6, today to bring an end to the general session of the legislature at noon, June 21, conditioned upon house agreement not later than 1 p. m. Tuesday. Senator Will Face of Tyler, author of the adjournment resolution, said he had been informed by house members the lower chamber would accept the proposal.

The resolution to set an adjournment date was introduced by Rep. J. Bryan Bradbury of Ahtone, opponent of the tax amendment. Bradbury proposed Friday of this week as the quitting time but Rep. E. H. Thornton of Galveston had the date changed to Tuesday of next week. Then the entire proposition was killed.

Sponsors of the taxation measure did not indicate when they would bring it up again but the debate opinion was that the next vote would come Wednesday or Thursday.

House members received printed copies of the first two of the six major appropriations bills.

The conference bill for support of state colleges during the 1939-41 biennium called for an appropriation of $17,323,476, approximately $600,000 higher than that for the current biennium. The elementary bill called for an appropriation of $14,361,270, an increase of $230,000 over the current allotment.

The house probably will vote Wednesday on these bills.

SOCIAL SECURITY STILL MAIN ISSUE IN LEGISLATURE

GOVERNOR USES SUNDAY BROADCAST ATTACK FOES, SEEK SUPPORTERS

AUSTIN, June 12.—(AP)—Still apparently as hopelessly divided as social security financing as it was in January, the legislature went into the sixth month of the general session today.

Of the 100 senate-approved and governor-blessed S. J. R. 12 (sales tax constitutional amendment) was the big question mark in the house. For the fifth time it was knocked sprawling Thursday.

Debate on whether it had been helped or hurt by Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel's latest utterances—a 30-minute broadcast Sunday from the mansion in which he employed both criticism of opponents and appeals with them in behalf of the amendment.

The governor devoted his entire time to discussion of the sales tax plan. He addressed himself directly to the 56 members of the house who voted down the proposal Thursday and said he had been forced to yield to them and asked that they now yield to him. He referred to the pension liberalization saying he had signed a bill putting $40,000 to $50,000 more on the rolls when he had recommended that the tax to support it be placed in the same bill.

Denouncing what he called "so much propaganda in so many newspapers," O'Daniel said: "And so, my friends, as I face this microphone it causes me to pause and bow in reverent thanks to Almighty God for his gift of radio here in this one avenue left open whereby the great masses of common citizens may get facts

ENGLISH RULERS IN CANADA AGAIN AFTER UNITED STATES VISIT

KING AND QUEEN RESTED SUNDAY ROOSEVELT ESTATE; SAIL THURSDAY

By FRANK H. KING

ABOARD THE ROYAL PILOT TRAIN, June 12.—(AP)—Refined after a quiet visit at Hyde Park, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth returned today to their Dominion of Canada, whence they will sail for England Thursday night.

The British rulers, who in three weeks in Canada and four days in the United States were seen by probably 5,000,000 persons in each country, came to the end of their journey still smiling.

They were more at ease and apparently enjoyed themselves more thoroughly during the informal weekend visit with President and Mrs. Roosevelt at Hyde Park than at any time during their tour of more than 7,000 miles.

Lunching on picnic plates, they sampled the American hot dog; drank beer; rode in an old automobile, with the President driving, through the beautiful Hudson Valley, and attended a country church.

The preacher—a bishop—went home to a meal with them, and in the afternoon the King and the President went swimming together in the new pool on the Roosevelt estate. The wives and "Ma," Mrs. Roosevelt's affectionate name for the President's mother—just visited.

Queen Elizabeth had walked up the aisle of St. James Parish Church gently assisting the 84-year-old mother of the President. For the select 200 who were admitted to the church because they have attended regularly, this unexpected touch helped relieve the awe occasioned by the sight of a sovereign of the worlds greatest empire and the president of the United States.

Start Arguments Hall Trial After Charge Delivered

District Judge Wayne R. Howell Monday morning at 11 o'clock began the reading of his charge to the jury in the Grover C. Hall trial and arguments of attorneys began immediately.

The courtroom was filled with interested spectators as has been the case since the trial started thirteen days ago.

Hall is being tried in connection with the fatal shooting of Charles T. Saniator, criminal district attorney, A. P. Mays closing for the defense while Norris W. Lovett, special prosecutor, closing for the state.

The arguments for the state were opened by Seton Holey, assistant criminal district attorney. He was followed by Tom L. Tyson, defense counsel. Others were Charles T. Texans Yawned As Third Native Son Took Open Title DALLAS, June 12.—(AP)—Texans yawned today when Byron Nelson, freckled Irish artist, won the national open golf title. It was the third straight time a home-grown Texan has won golf's biggest prize.

Slope-shouldered Ralph Guldahl of Dallas won it in 1937 and '38.

FLEDGLING OFFICERS HEAR PRESIDENT OF U. S. AT WEST POINT

'DESIRE FOR PEACE MUST NEVER BE MISTAKEN FOR WEAKNESSES,' HE SAYS

WEST POINT, N. Y., June 12.—(AP)—The fledgling officers who will direct the future might of America's armies heard President Roosevelt assert today that while the George's visit had emphasized that nations without fears could be friendly, this country's "desire for peace must never be mistaken for weakness."

During recent months, Mr. Roosevelt told the graduating class at the United States Military Academy, "international political considerations have required still greater emphasis upon the vitalization of our defense, for we have had dramatic illustrations of the fate of unfettered nations."

Not by name did he mention Austria, Czechoslovakia or Mexico, the states absorbed in whole or in part by the German reich, nor did he speak of international concern over those assimilations.

Courteous Recognition

And he referred to the visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth to the United States as "a courteous recognition of the cordiality and good will which prevails between two great nations."

Although Mr. Roosevelt declared "we seek peace by honorable means," he said stress anew on America's intention to build up her armed forces.

"The machine age has laid its iron grip upon the world's armies; and technical developments have demanded modernization of our military establishments, a program which has been prosecuted vigorously during the past six years," he said.

The chief executive declared the coming of the machine did not mean "that we shall ever have a robot war from which the primary

LEONARD ELKINS IS CRITICALLY WOUNDED EARLY HOUR MONDAY

LOUIS MOTT ALSO SLUGGED WHEN ROBBERS ENTER SLEEPING QUARTERS

State, county and city law enforcement agencies Monday were bending every effort to solve the attacking of Leonard Elkins and Louis Mott, at an early hour Monday morning in their room at the Highway 75 Club several miles north of Corsicana.

Two negroes were in jail shortly after noon as suspects and another is to be arrested for investigation, Sheriff C. O. Curington stated Monday afternoon. One of the negroes is an employee of the club.

Critically Wounded

Elkins is in the Navarro clinic in a critical condition with a number of .45 calibre pistol wounds in the shoulder and back in addition to head injuries believed sustained when he was slugged by the intruder. A blood transfusion was reported given him Monday shortly before noon.

Elkins recovered consciousness after the brutal attack on him and drove his car, officers reported, to the clinic where he received treatment. Mott sustained a bad bruise on the head when he is believed to have been slugged with a rolling pin. The rolling pin was broken and a huge flashlight was shattered, according to the sheriff. Mott was discharged after first aid treatment.

Entrance was effected through a screen window, Sheriff Curington reported, and an ice pick believed to belong to the establishment was found on the ground outside the window. The sheriff said the trouble apparently occurred about one o'clock Monday morning.

Both Men Slugged

Officers believe that Elkins and Mott were slugged and after the robber knocked them out, secured about $25 from the room.

Many Texans Meet Accidental Death During Week-End

By The Associated Press.

At least five persons drowned in Texas during the week end and seven were killed in highway accidents. Another died from a train. Three of the drownings were in swimming pools yesterday.

P. Hargrove, Jr., 14, high school student who could not swim, was found lying at the bottom of the Forest Park pool at Fort Worth. A party of swimmers missed James Franklin Brantley, 18, and his body was found in the pool at Vickery Park, Dallas county. Victor Gordon, 13, died in a Wichita Falls pool.

A wedding party ended with death for Ray Jones near Rusk. All of the boys in the party were 14 years old or younger and none could swim. Jones and two other boys stepped into deep water in a pond here.

BRITONS FINALLY AGREE KING AND QUEEN PROPERLY RECEIVED; MANY DESIRE SEE ROOSEVELT

LONDON, June 12.—(AP)—Britons have decided after four days of judicious study that King George VI and Queen Elizabeth got a "proper reception" in the United States.

But they are just a bit put out at the frankness of some of those who hailed their majesties as "the man in the street" and those others who put comments on the appearance of the queen. Those things are not done here.

Newspaper correspondents were amazed by the number of soldiers and police used to guard the king and queen but that did not surprise this writer's landlady.

"They must 'ave them," she said, "what with all those red Indians and train robbers about."

House Committee Asks Congress Add Big Sum War Department Funds

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(AP)—The house appropriations committee asked congress today to add $222,696,547 to next year's $508,789,324 war department appropriation bill to build more army planes, expand the Panama Canal garrison and provide "educational orders" for purchase of war materials.

It acted after a subcommittee heard from Major General Henry H. Arnold, chief of the army air corps, that his corps' current expansion would provide adequate aerial defense for the United States, despite superiority of some German warplanes.

All this country needs do, Arnold testified, is build pursuit ships which easily faster than any foreign bomber. And this is being done, he added.

The committee sent to the house for consideration, probably next week, a measure appropriating $14,250,000 for the educational sample, orders, $27,000,000 for Panama and $251,446,547 for 2,290 new planes and new housing facilities. Although it recommended appropriation of $120,000,000 for the new aircraft, the committee suggested that 1,007 were actually needed immediately.

Based on Needs

While the committee is proposing to underwrite the budget estimate (of $120,000,000) for procurement of planes, the report said, "it has joined to the appropriation a provision making procurement of 1,233 planes subject to the president's determination of their immediate need in the interest of national defense."

President Roosevelt twice has recommended the full program and there appeared little doubt he would authorize use of the entire fund.

The bill calls for 2,290 regular See PLANES, Page 2.

FOUR OUT OF SIX COLORADO ESCAPERS BEEN RECAPTURED

WARDEN OF REFORMATORY HELD AS HOSTAGE FOR TIME SUNDAY

BUENA VISTA, Colo., June 12.—(AP)—Four of six Colorado reformatory inmates who escaped from a prison here for a time held Warden W. H. Johnson as a hostage, were surrounded and captured shortly after daylight today in rugged country about 20 miles east of here.

The four, cold, hungry and tired from a 19-hour flight from prison, were surrounded by posse men and guards, were huddled around a campfire in scrub timber when two officers reached them.

They surrendered meekly. Warden Johnson named the quartet as Needham Ferguson, 23; Clarence A. Burkett, 22; Eugene Nebeker, 17, all of Denver; and James Cowan, 19, of Fort Collins.

All were returned to the reformatory and placed in solitary confinement.

"We believe we have the other two surrounded in a small area and are hopeful they will be captured soon," Warden Johnson said. "The two still at large, James and one other, are being sought."

Mrs. Eagle hid in a cell block and fired coolly and deliberately.

First Bale 1939 Cotton Is Ginned At Mission, Texas

MISSION, June 12.—(AP)—What was believed to be the world's first bale of 1939 cotton was ginned here last night.

Francisco P. Lozano of La Grulla, in southeastern Starr county, whose neighbors aided him in picking last week, thus won the distinction of growing the state's first bale.

In the 43-year history of the valley race, Lozano, a 75-year-old pioneer of the border country, has won six times.

This year's first bale was ginned from 1,400 pounds of seed cotton and weighed 424 pounds. It was taken to the Corpus Christi cotton exchange.

Arrives Corpus Christi

CORPUS CHRISTI, June 12.—(AP)—The first bale of 1939 cotton ginned in the United States arrived here early this morning and will be sold at public auction at 3 o'clock this afternoon on the floor of the Corpus Christi Cotton Exchange.

Arriving here before daylight, Francisco P. Lozano, La Grulla, Starr county, farmer, won first-bale honors for the third successive year. He was 12 days behind his 1938 time, but bested his 1937 time by two days and his 1935 time by four days. However, he was 23 days behind the all-time record set by Ernest Matz, San Benito farmer, May 21, 1921.

A premium was being collected for the grower by the cotton exchange. The bale weighed about 425 pounds and is said to be strict middling, 15-16 inches.

One of the largest crowds in the history of the event attended the annual barbecue given by R. L. Wheelock at his farm east of Corsicana Saturday afternoon and night.

Representatives of almost every line of business, industry, and profession were in attendance and enjoyed the usual bountiful repast of barbecued meats, fresh corn, potatoes and all of the other essential trimmings.

Tables for the guests were arranged in the big grove of trees near the picnic lodge.

Many former Corsicana residents were in attendance, giving the big event the appearance of a "homecoming."

ROWAN AND NICHOLS FAVORED DECISION OF FEDERAL COURT

JUDGE INSISTS OPERATORS ARE NOT TURNED TO PRODUCE AT WILL

AUSTIN, June 12.—(AP)—A federal court decision here today struck at the plan of the state railroad commission, in effect several years, for prorating production of the great East Texas oil field.

Holding a commission order issued Aug. 29, 1938, confiscatory, applied to certain properties of the Rowan & Nichols Oil company of Fort Worth, Federal Judge H. J. McMillan enjoined the commission from enforcing it against that company.

The order fixed the allowable production of the East Texas field at 232 per cent of the hourly potential production of wells and did not take into consideration acreage or other factors.

At the same time, Judge McMillan stated the operators were not being turned loose to produce without restraint but a proper amount of production would be decided upon at a conference among attorneys.

The court made it plain it was not attempting to pass on the validity of the entire state proration law or statewide orders issued under the law.

Will Appeal Case

It was understood the case would be appealed.

In his opinion, Judge McMillan said the plaintiff had attacked, not validity of the order, but the manner in which the order had been enforced, arguing it was discriminatory.

He pointed out the property consisted of 24 acres with five producing wells which were allowed to produce about 22 barrels each daily.

Deep sand and other advantages made it one of the best properties in the East Texas field, he said.

He hinted the propriety of allocating production on a per well basis was not so good and offered some criticism of exceptions to the commission's rule.

As the system operated, he said, some producers were allowed to get as much oil from a fraction of an acre as from a much larger area.

The company, in asking an injunction against the commission, had contended the order was unlawful because it was based solely on well potential.

It claimed acreage, porosity and permeability of the oil sand also should be considered.

Some speakers pointed out that to recover the oil under underlying its lease in the Castleberry survey of Gregg county, it said.

East Texas field wells are allowed to produce of 232 per cent of their hourly potential.

PRORATION HEARING DISRUPTED MONDAY BY COURT DECISION

CHIEF ENGINEER TESTIFIES ANY MARKED INCREASE TO CUT PRESSURE

AUSTIN, June 12.—(AP)—A federal court decision striking down a railroad commission oil prorating order in East Texas today exploded into interpretative discussion at the regular statewide prorating hearing attended by several hundred leaders of the industry.

Ernest Sadler, committee member, asserted he believed the ruling voided the regulating body's entire production order in the giant East Texas field.

Ernest Thompson, former commission chairman and chairman of the interstate oil company commission, differed.

"The decision did not strike down the order as to top allowable," Thompson said, "but merely the detailed plan of the order. In effect, the court declared he had given the poorer wells the right to produce practically the same amount as the better wells and that that was not a fair distribution."

The commission announced it would appeal the decision.

Some speakers pointed out that in deciding the amount of production allocated certain areas, the commission had failed to take into consideration the question of acreage.

Marginal Well Order.

Hines Baker of Houston, representing the Humble Oil Company, urged the commission to write a specific order for marginal wells, then exempt them from a general order.

"I believe it is possible for the commission to write a reasonable order under the court decision," Baker asserted. "A top allowable should be placed on the East Texas dent of the United States seated on the front pew.

Bishop Henry St. George Tucker, head of the Episcopal Church in the United States, broke the ice completely by looking over the crowd and observing, "one sees what happens when our parishioners bring their guests to church. If everyone would do this, our church would be filled every Sunday."

After a day crowded with friendly contacts, the Roosevelts took their royal guests down to the little railroad station at Hyde Park, and with handclaps and waves of goodbye sent them off to Canada again. A throng at the depot sang "Auld Lang Syne" as the train pulled out, with George and Elizabeth waving from the rear platform.

The special train stopped for 20 minutes at Rensselaer, near Albany, late Sunday night, but the king and queen evidently had retired, and were not seen by knots of people who stood in the rain.

Crossing the international boundary on a 5 a. m. (C.S.T.) schedule, at Rouses Point, N. Y., the train headed for "The Maritimes," as the eastern seaboard of Canada is known to its residents.

After an almost two-hour stop at Delson Junction, Que., the royal train left at 8:05 a. m. C. S. T., with King George standing on the rear platform and waving repeatedly to a wildly cheering crowd of about 500 persons.

Clouds banked the sky along the royal progress into French Canada, aftermath of a storm last night that cut a wide swath across Quebec province, causing heavy damage to decorations hung in honor of the royal visit.

Leave Halifax Thursday. The king and queen will sail from Halifax Thursday, arriving in London June 22 to complete a mission already under discussion throughout the world in its effect as a unifying influence in the British empire and because of implications and possibilities regarding Anglo-American relations.

Already there have been reports the king issued a "pressing" invitation to the president and Mrs. Roosevelt to visit England, but American and British officials said this was without foundation.

In appreciation of American hospitality, King George undoubtedly expressed the desire to entertain the President, but as a member of the King's suite said in discussing the matter, "we know what happened to the last American president who visited Europe."

Just before entraining, the king handed the president a souvenir—a gold "inkpot," or stand, decorated with the Royal coat of arms.

Today he will send to the president at Washington a more formal declaration of gratitude for the official hospitality of the American government and for general friendliness of the American people.

This message, expected to follow the general form of that sent to France after a state visit last year, will require no answer.

President Roosevelt and King George had frequent opportunities at Washington and at Hyde Park to discuss world problems generally, but neither attached much importance to these conversations. More notable, in the minds of observers, was the outpouring of friendly feeling for the visitors by all manner of Americans along their route that included Washington and New York.

The royal couple appeared to please these crowds as much as they do their native Londoners. The only criticism heard anywhere was that appearances of the king and queen were too brief, that their automobile moved too rapidly for them to be seen, or that safety precautions were too elaborate to give the crowds a good view.

The only time George registered displeasure was at the New York World's Fair, where he asked to be excused from greeting a long line of people in the Federal building, saying it would delay his schedule and keep waiting the thousands outside the building.

If Queen Elizabeth ever was displeased at anything, it was not discovered.

army planes and 177 for the National Guard. These, plus serviceable planes on hand or on order and plus 784 planes the regular war department appropriation bill provided for, would provide a total of 5,500 planes by July, 1941.

The $25,445,547 total air corps expansion includes a $2,600,000 appropriation for housing an air corps technical construction at new bases and depots, as well as improvements of existing stations. It is not intended now to build any permanent barracks, the committee said, except in Hawaii, the Canal Zone, Alaska and Ogden, Utah, and in Southeastern United States.

War department officials told the committee the Panama Canal appropriation would be used to increase the size of the garrisons from 3,518 enlisted men to 8,915 at a cost of about $2,000,000 and to construct housing facilities, storehouses and the like at a cost of $23,400,000.

The committee said the educational order would familiarize private manufacturers with production of munitions of war of "special or technical design, non-commercial in character."

"In commercial aviation, I feel we still hold the leading position, and our lead is that will depend on whether or not we concentrate on commercial aviation in the future, as we have in the past."

"Stated briefly, it is true that Europe leads us by a large margin in military aviation while we lead by a large margin in commercial aviation."

The object of developing aviation, motorization and mechanization, the President asserted, is to attain the highest possible degree of mobility. He explained that mobility was essential to the United States because even if fixed defensive installations at vital strategic centers were desirable, the vast territorial expanse of America would make their maintenance economically impracticable.

old age assistance law developed in the senate today.

Small of Amarillo who sought permission to introduce a bill suspending effectiveness of the new law which he said would add 40,000 to 50,000 aged to the rolls for which no money had been appropriated.

He withdrew his motion temporarily after it was indicated it might provoke prolonged discussion.

Small said the lawmakers had worked themselves into an "impossible situation without an excuse and liberalized qualifications for applicants would throw pension administration into a 'tail spin'."

"Good sound business judgment demands that the law be suspended until we can tell where we are going," he said.

He added the legislature could be called into special session in November to make operative a constitutional amendment for financing pensions and other security services, providing one is finally approved.

New Money Needed. Small expressed an opinion it would be 90 days before any new money could be raised, whether by constitutional amendment or statutory enactment.

Answering a question from Senator Joe Hill of Henderson, the Amarillo member said he thought a "message from the governor on this subject" would be persuasive but added he thought none would be delivered.

"The responsibility is on our shoulders, not the governor's," Small said.

Small had added:

"The main thing the people want is for us to go home now."

Up jumped Senator H. L. Winfield of Fort Stockton with this remark:

"The people in West Texas want us to break it up but they don't care whether we come home."

Small revealed his bill was drawn in the attorney general's department which is now studying the liberalization law in order to interpret it fully for pension administration.

He emphasized he had no quarrel with the liberalization statute since it was approved by big majorities in house and senate, adding it simply seemed sensible to hold up its operation and not make the situation more intolerable.

"Colossal Blunder." Failure of the legislature which wrote the original constitutional amendment on old age pensions to include a tax to finance them was termed a "colossal blunder."

Asserting he had been willing to compromise from the start, O'Daniel said he would have signed a statutory bill had one with sufficient revenue in it to pay for the program been sent him.

The governor resorted to alliteration as he denounced those who heaped criticism upon him in speeches last Thursday. He called them "wrecking political proselytes polluting the place performing a personality piracy plot for the purpose of plucking personal publicity by the papers printing their prattle."

A new group felt the wrath of the executive. He lashed out at what he termed "dollar diggers." He said this group which "collects dollar bills from the old folks to help fight for pensions" did not want to see the question settled because it would put them out of business.

The governor reiterated his warning he will not call the legislature back in special session to pass a statutory bill. He said:

"It will be a tragedy indeed if this social security program must go two more years without funds and especially with 40 to 85 thousand more old folks now signing applications because 51 out of your 56 voted for the liberalization bill which promised them pensions."

Appeals to Friends. O'Daniel closed with an appeal for his friends to pray that his wife and children "will be able to withstand the untruthful criticism which they are forced to hear from day to day heaped upon the one they love."

Although last Thursday's was generally conceded to have been the final test on S. J. R. 12, proponents hope to bring it before the house for the sixth time this week.

Rep. E. H. Thornton, Jr., of Galveston, directing the house fight for adoption, said he would try again this week.

"Right now, I'm chiefly interested in getting the appropriation bills disposed of," Thornton said. "But after that we'll try S. J. R. 12 again—this week."

Both proponents and opponents of the amendment shied away at commenting on O'Daniel's speech. Friends said he might have won a few votes to his cause, but foes of the proposal insisted their ranks were unbroken.

Rep. Bryan Bradbury of Abilene, a leading opponent, said, "I don't believe in discussing politics on the Sabbath."

Another representative who has voted for the amendment consistently refused to be quoted but said "it wouldn't take much more of this to switch my vote to no."

YOUTH QUICKER IN EMERGENCY WHILE DRIVING AN AUTO

AUSTIN, June 12.—(Spl.)—How age slows reflex action has been noted by state police in relation to the automobile driver.

Reaction tests given 33,000 persons show that young people are quicker than middle-aged drivers to react to an emergency and that women are slower than men when foot action is required but are faster with their hands. Women's dexterity the traffic research men said, probably comes from the fact that so many women's tasks are manual, such as sewing, cooking and typing.

The tests were administered by an electrically-controlled machine before which a red light flashed on one side and a figure representing a child on a bicycle appeared on the other. The driver did not know which would appear, and so had to make an emergency decision in each case.

Male drivers between 15 and 21 years had the best reaction time of any one age group. Ninety per cent of them were able to react to the emergency in one-half second, while only 60 per cent of the girls in this age group could equal that.

But the next age group, 22 to 35 years, shows only 75 per cent of the men and 60 per cent of the women able to react in one-half second. The percentage shows another decrease in the next age bracket, 36 to 45 years, where only 65 per cent of the men and 40 per cent of the women made the half-second response. In the last group, 46 to 55 years, the figures drop to 45 per cent of the men and 25 per cent of the women.

These percentages must not be taken, however, as an indication that middle-aged drivers are necessarily poor drivers. They merely show their reactions are slower, older drivers often have an increased safety index because they are more cautious and exercise better judgment than younger drivers do, it was pointed out.

JUST FOLKS

(Copyright, 1937, Edgar A. Guest)

FOOD WARY
Time was I could tackle a rare-
bit my dear,
Or a tin of sardines and some cheese.
I could handle a ham bone when midnight drew near
Or the claws of a lobster with ease.
But those were the days of the
dear long ago
Which now I can never recall,
When food was a pleasure and I didn't know
That I had a stomach at all.
Time was I'd have stood in your kitchen, my dear,
And boiled your jelly and bread,
But that was before I'd been tutoried to stand and stare.
So very enticing a spread,
Yes, that was before I'd been checked up for things
Which only the doctors can find,
When a supper was supper, not something that brings
Disturbance of body and mind.
Time was I'd have gone for that rhubarb, my dear,
Nor reckoned on saucer enough,
But that was before I'd been taught to stay clear
Of such and alkaline stuff.
Now I know all the hazards and dangers I run
From the juiciest sandwiches made
And food of all kinds is just something to stand and stare at.
Since the doctors have made me afraid.

PUBLIC OR PRIVATE PHILANTHROPY?

President Winfred G. Leutner of Western Reserve University says privately endowed colleges are facing a crisis. "Not the richest have solved its operating problem for next year," he declares. "But the problem is more fundamental than merely raising money. It extends into the long-time future of democratic society, for we do not know how far governmental participation in education, care of the sick or help for the underprivileged is going."

"You can do much to educate your fellow-citizens either to extend government participation into every branch of philanthropy or to stop the taxation increase which is cutting off private philanthropy."

The choice isn't quite so simple as it might seem from this last statement. It may as well be admitted that the big depression drove the government—federal, state and local—into many fields of service previously supported largely by private philanthropy. But as a result the institutions affected are now literally "in the middle." And whether the trend is to be toward more complete public support of such institutions, or back to private support, nobody seems to know.

Most Americans clearly favor the restoration of private support as far as possible.

ROYAL "INFO"

Most of the information printed about the royal family, during this international expedition, is just so much sawdust to a newspaper man. But from a column whose conductor (not Winchell, but Harlan Miller) seems to have done some practical research, we gather these living facts. That King George is a pretty good aviator, and still flies, although they now send along a professional, just in case; That he spends $1,700 a year for newspapers, and so is presumably well informed; though with all those papers to read, how does he get any governing done?

That he is paid $2,000,000 a year, and can't save much out of it; That there must still be blacksmith shops in England, for George pays $2,000 a year for shoeing his horses;

That he is well equipped religiously, having 48 ministers on his staff; That George gives Elizabeth $200,000 a year for spending money; That the Queen pays $240 for suits of Scotch tweed; That their friends call them, in private, Bert and Betty.

Now you can go and tell the neighbors about it.

get it from our own Navy Department. We, in our turn, have learned much from British experiments with under-sea safety devices.

Why do we not carry over such good-will, co-operation and human decency into the situations which lead to war?

THE OLD CURIOSITY SHOP!

NEW SKILLS FOR JEWS

The Jews in Germany are seeking to prepare themselves for different kinds of work. The jobs they have held are rapidly being closed to them. The new countries to which they hope to migrate do not always have openings in the lines they have formerly followed. Necessity forced the change, but courage and ingenuity are directing it intelligently.

This work really began some years ago, before Hitler's anti-Semitic program was launched. Far-seeing Jews recognized the truth in the criticism that their people concentrated too much in the intellectual occupations. They began a movement to train them in other fields.

Thus the Jews are becoming farmers and manual laborers and craftsmen in order to be able to support themselves and families wherever their destiny make take them. They have established farm colonies in Argentina. They have trade schools and training courses set up in immigration centers in England, Holland and Sweden. Jews in other parts of the world have given financial support for the work.

The system is not operating perfectly. Would-be farmers have had to go into industrial countries and English-speaking Jews into Spanish-speaking countries, and so on. But the germ of a great development is there and it should mean hope and courage to these persecuted people in this new time of trouble.

CHOSS

This story may not be true, but anyway it's told of a United States Senator by a fellow who swears he heard it.

"The world's getting in to a terrible state, isn't it?" observed the constituent.

"Yes," growled the senator. "It's choss."

"It's what?" asked the puzzled constituent.

"Why choss, just choss."

"How do you spell it?" asked the constituent.

Now any evil-minded person who thinks that senator couldn't spell is dead wrong. He spelled it out slowly and clearly—"c h o s s."

Thurman Arnold, the government's anti-monopoly chief, doesn't seem to have noticed all these church consolidations.

When King George gets back home, full of pep from his big holiday, he might take hold and let Mr. Chamberlain get away for a while.

ANTI-SEMITIC JITTERS.

A credulous person might suppose, from current anti-Semitic propaganda, that the Jews, like Shakespeare's Caesar, "bestride this narrow world like a colossus." From Hitler, Father Coughlin, General Moseley and many another alarmist of that type, we get the impression that the Jews hold the rest of the human race in the hollow of their hands.

They are supposed to have, and wield, vast and mysterious power. They are regarded as international in distribution but national in malign purpose and potency; and all the rest of us earthly races, particularly in western Europe and America, must rally and defend ourselves against them.

This, fellow-Gentiles, should be recognized by any intelligent ten-year-old child as probably the silliest bunkum ever foisted upon a jittery world.

Look at those 900 trembling, weeping, despairing Jews turned back from Cuba the other day. Do you see any malevolent power there?

Look at the great Rothschild, celebrated in a thousand orations as a super-human oppressor of vast wealth—escaping from Germany a pitiful, broken man. Look at the Jews almost anywhere in Europe today, frightened and harassed in another dispersion.

Look at the Jews you know, beginning to fear even in free America. Look up the population figures—only a little more than 15,000,000 of them, widely scattered in a world of nearly 1,900,000,000 people, without racial organization or government, and mostly poor.

If they are powerful, why don't they defend themselves.

Of course they are not powerful. They are pitifully weak and helpless against their persecutors.

If the Russians want to drink champagne instead of vodka that's fine; but it wouldn't ever occur to Americans to call it a "cultural drink." Our culture thrives more on ginger ale, soda water and milk.

The shooting isn't over yet in Spain. The patriots who won are abolishing the patriots who lost, at the rate of 380 a day.

Those Chinese are making a great fight; they're yellow only on the outside.

Jobs, too, are beginning to blossom.

YOUNG GOVERNESS
CHARGED KIDNAPING
SAN FRANCISCO BOYDEMANDED RANSOM $1,600
FOR RETURN OF FIVE-
YEAR-OLD CHARGE

SAN FRANCISCO, June 9.—(AP)—A comely, 19-year-old governess, charged with kidnaping a 5-year-old boy, told police today her name was Miss Margaret Polly Weil and that she wanted the $1,600 ransom "to pay the mortgage on my mother's farm at Nassau, New York."

Police Inspector John Engler, who quoted the girl, said, "The scheme failed because Miss Weil wore an expensive fur cape stolen in a robbery at Los Angeles May 2."

A driver observed the cape when the girl and the child, Krehe Osborn, entered a railroad station Wednesday afternoon. She was traced to a hotel at San Jose, 50 miles from here, where the boy was found unharmed.

Engler said the girl told him she was the daughter of Mrs. Graham Weil of Nassau, she left home seven months ago, and, though inexperienced, thought she "could get by" because she was attractive.

Engler said she admitted robberies at Chicago and Los Angeles. He also charged her with taking $500 cash and rings, valued at $300, from Mrs. Mabel Osborn, the child's mother.

Only clue found in her effects were pawn tickets issued by a Chicago firm (U. S. Loan Bank) which bore the name "Ruhama Timms."

She was quoted by Inspector George Page as saying "I would do it all over again if I had the chance."

Page said the girl intimated her real name was not Gaylord, but police had no other name save the signature "G. Lord" on the San Jose hotel register. She said her home was in Chicago until she came here several weeks ago.

The child's mother discovered the pair's disappearance and found the asserted ransom note about 1:15 p. m. Wednesday.

The note, which Chief of Police William J. Quinn said was in Miss Weil's writing, warned the mother not to tell the police "if you value your son's life."

The Osborns are not wealthy. Apparently officers said, the girl hit upon $1,600 as a ransom sum after seeing a deposit book with an $1,800 balance.

Miss Weil was employed three weeks ago.

PIERRE S. DUPONT
STOCK TRANSACTIONS
ARE UNDER SCRUTINY

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(AP)—The Securities Commission announced today it had started to investigate the "facts and circumstances" involved in alleged "discrepancies" reported in transactions in Du Pont common stock by Pierre S. Du Pont, chairman of the company's board.

The commission said these "discrepancies" had come to light in connections of Du Pont common stock transactions submitted to the SEC by Du Pont.

The commission's announcement said:

"The official summary of transactions of holdings of officers, directors and principal company stockholders published today includes corrections submitted by Pierre S. Du Pont, chairman of the board of E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Company, of 20 previous reports of his direct holdings in the common stock of that company since November, 1934."

whereas the original reports showed substantial net long positions, the corrected report showed that "throughout the period he owned substantially more shares than he owned."

As of Dec. 31, 1934, he reported he held 33,252 shares, the commission said.

Corrected report states that on that date he was minus 108,460 shares.

Various reports filed in the intervening period showed he held substantial amounts, the commission stated, "while corrected reports showed he was minus substantial amounts."

The commission asserted further the original report for Feb. 23, 1935, showed holdings of 73,394, while the corrected amount was "minus 26,542."

"In response to inquiries the commission stated it has undertaken to determine the facts and circumstances involved in these discrepancies," the SEC announcement said.

A "net long position" means that the holder of the stock owns it outright. A "short" or "minus" position is arrived at as follows: An individual sells stock which he does not own and then borrows the stock in order to make delivery to the person who has purchased it.

Later as a rule the "seller" or buyer back the stock in the open market in order to return it to the person from whom he has borrowed it.

MID-AFTERNOON SLUMP

Stretching does away with mid-afternoon slump

Here is a new version of the seventh inning stretch. It's awfully good for that middle-afternoon slump when your brain goes a bit dull but you still have a lot of work to finish before you can close your desk. Watch out that you don't eat heavy luncheons on these warm days because they will most certainly retard your progress during the afternoon. So much better to have a salad and fruit luncheon—but of course, that is what you are doing if you are following the Reducing Outlines. And for the exercise—simply stretch your arms 'way out forward, pulling from the spine, with fists clenched—rolling a little from side to side until you feel that you cannot stretch any further. At the same time, stretch the feet outward—keeping them off the floor—and turn the toes inward, pushing outward at the heels.

EIGHTH DAY REDUCING DIET

YOUTHFUL BRITISH SOVEREIGNS VISIT CAPITOL OF NATION

KING GEORGE AND QUEEN ELIZABETH HAVE ANOTHER EVENTFUL DAY

WASHINGTON, June 8. (AP)—In solemn reverence, King George VI paid homage today to America's foremost shrine, the tomb of George Washington, who led thirteen struggling colonies to independence from British rule.

Plans more than any other event of the historic two-day visit, the unprecedented but simple ceremony on the grassy slopes of Mount Vernon symbolized the peaceful friendship between the two English-speaking peoples divided on the battlefield in 1776.

While his queen and President and Mrs. Roosevelt looked on, the king placed a wreath of white lilies, iris and carnations on the marble sarcophagus. The ceremony of respect for the "Father of the Country" was one of the most dramatic of the royal visit and drew a crowd of one of the smallest crowds to attend any of the functions of the last two days.

On the yacht Potomac, while cheering down the quiet Potomac, the king and queen, the president and the royal guests had lunch. The king and queen boarded the Potomac at the navy yard after exchanging cordial greetings with American legislators at a brilliant capitol reception.

Standing in the huge, high-ceilinged capitol rotunda, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth had a smile and royal handshake for the 400-odd senators and representatives crowded into the chamber.

When it was over, Chairman Pittman of the reception committee said the king thanked congress in these words: "Her Majesty and I are unable to express our appreciation of the universal courtesy and friendship we have received."

The monarchs stood less than 100 yards from the spot where victorious British troops held a triumphal parade in 1783.

Seventy-four year old Senator Borah (R-Iowa) of the Senate was the first, other than the reception committee, to meet the king and queen after they were escorted inside by a reception committee. American legislators, formerly of Indianapolis, to Pittman (D-Ind.), chairman of the foreign relations committee.

The king and queen first were greeted at the door of the rotunda by Vice President Garner and Speaker Cheadle.

At the British embassy a few minutes earlier, American veterans who once fought for the British empire won special greetings from their English Majesties. The king stopped and chatted with A. E. Graham, a Washington resident, formerly of Indianapolis, who lost a leg with Canadian troops at Amiens in 1918.

Greeted by Applause. When the rulers appeared in the big circle, the cheering and assembled legislators broke into spirited applause.

The couple passed along a route marked out by purple plush ropes and took their positions in the receiving line. Senators and representatives waiting to greet them were penned into separate groups behind other plush ropes to the center of the rotunda.

Pittman said the king's left to introduce the senators to the British monarchs. The queen, seemingly really to enjoy the occasion, stood at the king's right.

Remembered Mansfield. After the reception, Mansfield said the king and queen called seeing him yesterday at the garden party at the British embassy.

"I bowed and scraped as best I could in my damnable wheel chair," the Texan commented. "I avoided entering their car, the king and queen drove to the navy yard to board President Roosevelt's yacht, the Potomac, for the trip to the White House."

Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt awaited them. The president was in a white suit and a white straw hat. Mrs. Roosevelt wore a pink and black dress with pink flowers tucked under the rolled skirt.

Lady Katherine Seymour, lady-in-waiting to the queen, in a simple black and white dress, called seeing him yesterday at the garden party at the British embassy.

Barred by historic tradition as they are from the "Mother of Parliaments" in London, the royal pair was stationed to greet lawmakers in the shadowy rotunda rather than in the senate or house chambers.

But first from the White House where they slept last night, the path of King George and Queen Elizabeth led again to the British embassy, again to the green garden. Last evening 1,400 guests were entertained at a garden party there in their honor.

Today in the sunlit-tree-studded garden, members of the British colony lined up behind ropes which marked off a square of green lawn before the garden terrace.

WHITE HOUSE STATE DINNER AND MUSICAL GAVE VISITING ROYAL COUPLE GREAT EVENING

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP)—

The petite Queen of England, wearing a diamond and ruby coronet, sat in her chair to watch Soco Gap square dancers from North Carolina do the "water wheel."

Britains king-emperor, resplendent in evening attire and garter, sat in his chair to hear the Coon Creek girls from Kentucky "knock 'em dild" with fiddle and song.

The unusual scene was the climax of a state dinner and musical at the White House last night in honor of the visiting monarchs—a program in which American folk singers and dancers appeared with such eminent vocalists as Lawrence Tibbett and Marian Anderson, the negro contralto.

But before the program, take a look in the oak-paneled state dining room.

First, there had to be an extra cushion for Queen Elizabeth's chair, which of course was at the right of President Roosevelt's. Speaker Bankhead was at her right, then Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Lord Eldon, Mrs. Cordell Hull, Secretary Woodring, and so on.

Across the big horseshoe table, decorated with hundreds of fragile white orchids, in and around the Monroe gold and mirror centerpieces, sat Mrs. Roosevelt in the center, Mrs. King George to her right.

How They Sat. Next to him was Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes, wife of the chief justice, now ill. To the right of Mrs. Hughes was Mrs. Roosevelt's left hand, Lady Lindsay, Secretary Hull, and Lady Katharine Seymour.

At the left of the president were Mrs. Garner, Sir Ronald Lindsay, Mrs. Bankhead. And around the table were 82 of Washington's and London's official elite.

Response to invitations to witness the review of these foreign soldiers and sailors, about 500. Before leaving for the embassy the king and queen met newspapermen who had assembled for a press conference with Mrs. Roosevelt.

Queen's Costume. Queen Elizabeth, tiny beside Mrs. Roosevelt, wore a white silk frock trimmed in silver banding at the neck and a large white picture hat. She wore a double sash of pearls.

The royal guests left the White House at 10:30 a. m. to start the second day of their 36-hour visit. The capitol corridors, usually filled with tourists during daylight hours, instead were lined with policemen this morning for the royal visit. Only newsmen, photographers and officials of congress were admitted.

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP)—

The queen was the object of many eyes. Her coronet was just a beginning, although it contained the biggest single diamond seen here recently—maybe even. Her white tulle bouffant gown had three full flounces speckled with gold. Her necklace and earrings were of diamonds and plectrums. Her hair was a diamond necklace.

Thanks to King George, who sent the word around after a taste of Washington's heat, men instead of court uniforms. After the terrapin and capon, there were toasts by the president and the king—toasts pledging the friendship of the English-speaking nations.

Musical Follows. Then the ladies moved to the Green Room, where Queen Elizabeth sat on a couch and the guests took turns talking to her. In the dining room, President Roosevelt signaled for King George and Vice President Garner to come around to his side of the table, and all the men were served at last by the waiter.

Theaterically she might be prosecuted by United States authorities for falsification of an American passport.

AMERICAN WOMAN IS SENTENCED FRIDAY IN RUSSIAN COURT

GIVEN 18 MONTHS ON PLEA OF GUILTY; ONLY ONE DAY TO SERVE YET

MOSCOW, June 9. (AP)—Mrs. Ruth Marie Rubens, American woman whose long detention in Russia has been extended until the diplomatic investigation is completed, was sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment in court today but was told she would be free tomorrow because she has served all of the term of the sentence.

The sentence was passed in the Moscow city court on a charge that Mrs. Rubens entered Soviet Russia on a false passport.

She had disappeared from a Moscow hotel with her husband, known also as Donald Robinson, in December, 1937, and a month later United States embassy officials were permitted to see her in prison.

Her husband's whereabouts never has been established. Whether she will be turned over to United States authorities immediately after liberation could not be determined.

Theoretically she might be prosecuted by United States authorities for falsification of an American passport.

Mrs. Rubens easily admitted coming to Russia with false documents but denied "criminal intent."

Her main concern in court was to know what had happened to her husband. After the sentence had been pronounced she asked the court for information concerning him but her request was turned down.
